

About Plinga

Plinga is a leading European publisher of social games. Plinga believes that sharing the online game experience with friends makes it more compelling and fun. Plinga's games let users play with their real-world friends using the infrastructure built by social networks and social game portals. With a growing catalogue that ranges from card games to action and strategy games, Plinga offers more than 30 social games that can be found on 40 social networks and game portals. Today, more than 18 million users play Plinga's social games every month. The company was founded in June 2009 and is based in Berlin, Germany.
