

Plinga GmbH is Europe's main publisher and distributor of Social Online Computer Games with more than 30 published games of well-known test and development labs on 50 social networks and internet portals. The gaming industry is a booming industry which is why our team -80 in total- is currently looking after an international online community with more than 35 million players every month in 15 different languages. We are currently looking for additional team members to help us provide our customers with an impeccable service provision throughout the world and a pleasant experience with the games on offer. In particular, our flagship in Berlin needs:

Human Resources Intern

What will you do?

- You'll get a snapshot into all the areas of our department: Organisation, training and development, performance management, communication, administration, marketing, consultancy and payroll.
- You'll also support our team with regards to all the aspects in connection with our recruitment procedures.
- You'll have your own projects from day one and are encouraged to develop and implement your own ideas.

What are your key attributes/characteristics?

- You have completed at least your 4th semester of your studies in a discipline related to HR or business administration.
- Ideally, you've already acquired some experience in HR.
- You have good communication/writing skills in German and English.
- You have solid IT (MS-Office) skills.
- You are proactive, conscientious and reliable.
- You are sociable and have a can-do approach.
- You can work both without supervision and as part of a team.

What can we do for you?

- Join us and be part of a successful and rapidly growing start-up here in the heart of Berlin and explore your options in one of the most attractive sectors of the new economy sealing the connection between computer games and social media.
- Join our young, international and committed teams.
- We offer you a comprehensive training program to underpin your professional development.
- Flexible hours, a great atmosphere and working environment.

For more information about our job vacancies, go to: <http://plinga.com/jobs>

We look forward to your online application in English or German, including your CV, relevant references and preferences with regards to your general availability!

Plinga GmbH
Human Resources
Bianca Just
Saarbrücker Str. 20/21
10405 Berlin

recruiting@plinga.com
www.plinga.com