

With over 30 published games of renowned development studios on 50+ social networks and web portals, Plinga Ltd. is Europe's main publisher of social games. The industry is experiencing a great deal of growth, and our team members -80 in total- are currently looking after more than 35 million active players in 15 different languages every month. We aim to provide our esteemed client base with quality and an unforgettable gaming experience. To support our team, our flagship in Berlin-Prenzlauer Berg is currently looking for a:

Head of Human Resources

What will you do?

- You'll be in charge of all the areas of our department: organisation, training and development, performance, management, communication, administration, marketing and consultancy.
- You'll manage a small HR team and also look after our Plinga teams and their 80 team members.
- You'll be the first point of contact when it comes to employment law.
- You'll support our team with regards to all the aspects in connection with our recruitment procedures.
- You'll work in concert with our external partner and run the payroll department.

What are your key attributes/characteristics?

- You hold a university degree in Business Administration or Social Sciences/Psychology with focus on personnel management.
- Ideally, you've already worked in HR for at least 3 years.
- You have excellent communication/writing skills in German and English.
- You have solid IT ( MS-Office ) skills.
- You are very proactive, conscientious and reliable.
- You are very sociable and have a can-do approach.
- You have excellent leadership skills and like working as part of a team.

What can we do for you?

- Join us and be part of a successful and rapidly growing start-up here in the heart of Berlin and explore your options in one of the most attractive sectors of the new economy, sealing the connection between computer games and social media.
- Join our young, international and committed team.
- We offer you a comprehensive training program to underpin your professional development.
- Flexible hours, a great atmosphere and working environment.

For more information about our job vacancies, go to: <http://plinga.com/jobs>

We look forward to receiving your online application in English or German, including your CV, relevant references and preferences with regards to your general availability!

Plinga GmbH
Human Resources
Bianca Just
Saarbrücker Str. 20/21
10405 Berlin

recruiting@plinga.com
www.plinga.com